On Top of the Hill

On top of a small hill in Mobile, Alabama lies a place marked by 169 years of Catholic tradition and commitment to education. This place, simply referred to as Spring Hill College, rests on the highest peak in Mobile county. From on top of the hill, one can see the glimmer of city lights in the distance. However, an onlooker need not look into the distance to find a special, beautiful place.

Upon entering the gates of Spring Hill, one can see just why the school is adored by many. Grandiose trees line the Avenue of Oaks, their branches swooping to the ground. In addition, beautiful azalea bushes bloom every spring, greeting visitors daily. The luscious vegetation is symbolic of the growth on campus. It is the growing, or nurturing, of body, mind and spirit that occurs on campus.

But, what is it about Spring Hill that makes it so different from any other institute of higher learning? Perhaps it's the friendly nature of the people on campus, especially the students, who come from all over the world. Or, maybe, Spring Hill is different because of the compassion and dedication exhibited by respected faculty members who are willing to lend a helping hand, or go the extra mile, to help a student in need. It could even be the presence of the Jesuits on campus, offering guidance both academically and spiritually. Perhaps what makes Spring Hill different is a combination of all of these things and more. I don't know what it is, and so I think it nearly impossible to put into words.

Although it can't be explained, those who have experienced life at Spring Hill know there's something different...

As the alarm clock goes off and I sleepily awaken, I think to myself that it is way too early to begin my day. Then, as my vision slowly comes into focus, and I look at the clock which reads 10:00am, I realize that my life is pretty nice. How many people in the "real world" get to begin their day at ten in the morning? I appreciate my current living situation; but, nonetheless, I grumpily get out of bed in order to get ready for the "long" day ahead of me.

At last I'm ready for my first class of the day which happens to begin at 10:40. I leave my apartment, which includes two full baths, a kitchen, and a complete laundry room, and I'm practically standing on the golf course fairway. I question whether or not I'm still dreaming. At the young age of 20, I could not possibly be living on a golf course. Could I?

My day consists of a few classes, a meeting, and, of course, lots of socializing. For the second time that day I make a realization, and I now start to worry that I might be thinking too hard. I make a mental note to cut it out; after all, I'm a just a college kid, and I shouldn't be thinking. Or should I? Anyway, what I realize is that college will probably be the only time during my life that I will be surrounded by so many people my own age. Due to this fact, I justify that socializing is just as important as studying.

My view from the top of the hill is that students at Spring Hill, like many other college students, live in a dream world, spoiled by a campus and lifestyle that caters to individual needs. I wonder how many other schools provide the ready-made plush lifestyle that Spring Hill offers. Probably not may. At Spring Hill, the education is great, teachers are willing to work with you, and, most importantly, a friend is never far away. I think my parents knew what they were talking about when they said that college wasn't a four-year college education, but a four-year college vacation.

Summer Vacation!

By the time April rolls around, two words linger in the minds of students: "Summer Vacation!" After 8 months of arduous work, students look for a respite, literally counting down the days until their last final.

But how do Spring Hill students spend their summer vacations? Many return home, as two other words linger in their minds: "Need Money!" Just as badly as students need a vacation, they also need money. By the end of the school year, many students find their savings and checking accounts all but depleted. Upon arrival home, these students find summer employment in a variety of jobs. Still, other students remain at school to take a mini or attend summer school. The key words here are either: "Get Ahead" or "Catch Up", whatever the case may be. More adventuous students travel, either for pleasure or through study abroad programs. These students take advantage of their youth and abundance of energy.

Students do a variety of things over the summer; but, like all good things it comes to an end. As August approaches, and it is time to return to SHC, students pack their bags and whimsically reflect on their Summer Vacation.

Freshman Orientation

The weekend of August 22-24, will invariably be remembered by freshmen students for the rest of their lives. The weekend marked the emergence of 250 individuals into the college world. The weekend was Spring Hill Orientation Weekend, and was a time filled with mixed emotions. It was preceded by students saying goodbye to their family and friends, packing up their belongings, and traveling to Mobile, Alabama.

An overwhelming feeling many freshmen experienced was fright. Questions such as, "What will college be like?" or, "Will I like it here?" ran through the minds of these scared freshmen. The purpose of Orientation Weekend, was to dispel these fears and show the new students just how much fun can be had at college.

Early registration began on Thursday evening, but official registration did not begin until Friday morning. On Friday, students spent a good portion of their day standing on line to collect such information as their class schedule and mailbox combination. When they finally finished everything, they raced back to the dorm to begin to unpack and arrange their rooms. On Friday night, there was a mock game-show, "The Real Deal," that parents and students attended. Participants won prizes for completing silly tasks. The night was enjoyable and was a precursor for things to come. On Saturday morning, students were met with the first of a series of meetings. Just as students attended meetings, so did their parents. On Saturday evening there was a mass held in St. Joseph's Cathedral which brought a close to the parent portion of the Weekend. After mass, parents tearfully left to return home, leaving behind their children to experience college by themselves. Later in the evening on Saturday night, the peer counselors hosted "Late Night." There was karaoke singing, and afterward, the peer counselors put on a series of skits for the freshmen.

Orientation Weekend was for meeting people, for beginning the adjustment to college life, and for having a good time. Orientation was just the beginning for the freshmen class who had no idea what to expect.

On top of the Hill...

On top of the Hill, there are many things to do. Weekly activities are planned and hosted by the Student Government Association, campus ministry, and individual organizations. Programming ranges from band parties and comedians, to educational speakers and coffee houses, to retreats and campus liturgies. Students on Spring Hill's campus do not have to look very far to find something to do. This is what makes Spring Hill unique. At a school with only 1,000 students, students have a definite voice as far as what programming occurs. Members of Student Government seek the advice of their fellow classmates to see what the student body wants. SGA not only plans programming that takes place on a regular basis, like Tuesday night movies in the Cloister, but they plan special events as well. Oktoberfest and Campus Mardi Gras, in addition to the two formals every year, are some of the biggest events. Whether you like loud, band parties or quiet coffee houses, Spring Hill offers it all. On top of the Hill, there is always something going on.

Welcome Back to School Band Party and Games

To kick off the 1998-1999 school year, the Student Government Association's programming board provided a day and night of fun-filled activities for students to enjoy. The day started off with Novelty games. The inflatible games were placed on the field just outside the Communication Arts building. Games included boxing, a wall-climb and a bungee run. Harry Hardin served as the D.J. at the event, making sure that good music played for the full duration of the games. The games were a good opportunity for freshmen to meet upperclassmen in bouts of friendly competition.

After the games, there was a picnic on library field. Lunch was catered by Dreamland Barbecue and enjoyed by many. Next, the soccer teams took the field and students stayed around to watch.

Once the sun went down, the band was heard warming up. Big Sky played in the quadrangle, and students came ready to enjoy good music. The students were not disappointed as Big Sky was an immediate hit. Dancing to the music, some wished the night would never end. However, like all good things, it was inevitable to prolong its life. And so, the day was over, but not before one last song goodnight.

night away...

Long Winded...

The cafeteria was filled with a buzz on the Friday before the Hurricane "Will classes be canceled?" It was an excitement comparable to a child at Christmas, as the halls cleared and we were left with dreams of a long weekend dancing in our heads. Parents prayed that the hurricane would not hit, while their children said another prayer encouraging the hurricane.

Packed and ready to go, students waited for word on whether or not classes were to be canceled. Georges was looming in the distance, like an angry Parisian waiting to pounce. The storm played cat and mouse with the coastal area as our preparations hung in the balance.

It looked as though we were to be saved and New Orleans was to bear the brunt of the storm. By Saturday evening, all we wanted was for it to hit already; but still the storm loomed in the distance until Sunday. Then, the estimated time of landfall and the direction changed and Mobile was right in the path . . . of the storm!

Classes were canceled for Monday and immediately plans took shape for the awesome party/study weekend to come. However, then the dorm's doors closed and the plans became just a bit more blandr. In the residence halls, occupants who were curled up in their beds were moved into the hallway for their nights sleep. The same story occured in other residence halls on campus. Minutes crept by, leaving only the wind and Marriott's turkey sandwiches to pass the time. All who had stayed wished they hadn't, as they were under dorm arrest.

It ended up that we made it through safely, and we were fortunate, comparing ourselves to what greeted us on our televisions. The surreal horrors that were titled under the name of Mobile was not what our campus saw. People around the world saw on CNN the destruction in Mobile caused by the hurricane. Our campus only had minor damage, with a lot of branches and leaves torn off the trees. Georges was fortunately less severe by the time it hit Spring Hill, and it should be a reminder to us of just how blessed we are.

Ignatian Retreat

A time of peaceful meditation

The Ignatian weekend retreat is designed to provide interested individuals with the opportunity to "get in touch" with their deepest hopes and desires. Often in the bectic schedule of school, work, and social activities, one loses focus on the more important issues of life. Am I really happy? What is the perspective and way of life that would lead me to internal harmony and peace? What do I really beliee in? The Ignatian Retreat is structured to help a person step back, look more closely at basic questions, and find a personal response to them.

The quiet, inviting atmosphere of the retreat works toward the development of the individual. The availability of personal, spiritual direction and the necessity of a quiet setting for this prayerful experience requires that only a small group can be accommomodated at one time.

The retreat includes a daily celebration of the Eucharist, an opportunity to receive the Sacrament of Reconciliation, and an occasion to meet privately with one of the Jesuit directors.

Ignatian retreat is, as one student put it, "A time to share...in God's personal love for me and in the faith life of the Spring Hill College community."

Hunger Banquet

Oxfam America has been fighting hunger around the world for 50 years. This year, Campus Ministry decided to join the effort by hosting the first annual Hunger Banquet. Maureen Bergan, assisted by Tony Simoncini and Maragarete Finzel coordinated the event which took place on Wednesday, November 18. Between the faculty and students, 60 people showed up to participate in this memorable night. Fr. Viscardi began the night with a prayer, and then Tony stepped in as the host for the evening. The 60 participants were randomly assigned to three groups. Each group had a different type of food and eating arrangements. Lambda Chi Alpha helped by serving the 15% of the participants who received Marriott's "Premium Entree." The second group, 30%, helped themselves to a meal of rice and beans, with tea to drink. The rest, 55%, received merely rice and water. As Tony explained to everyone present, these statistics represented those of the world and showed how unevenly money and food is distributed to the population. Surprisingly, all of the participants remained in good spirits as they accepted their meals. Due to a bit of begging, from the ones on the floor eating rice, the participants sitting at the Marriott table got a better understanding of the wide-spread problem of world hunger. The night ended with a powerful duet called "Rich Woman. Poor Woman" performed by Margarete Finzel and Kendal Balkom.

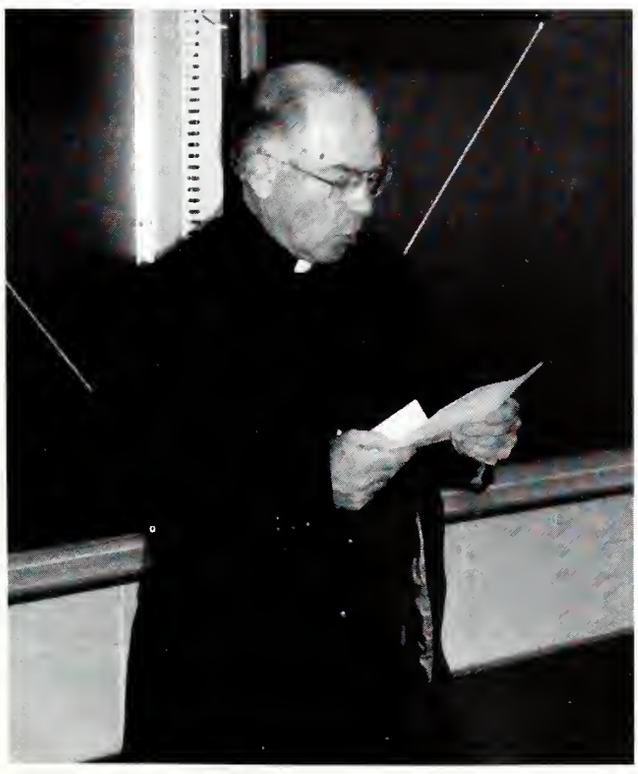
Rimes Lecture

Featuring Dr. George V. Coyne, S.J.



On Thursday, November 19, the 14th annual Rimes Lecture was held. The lecture was sponsored by the Science Division and featured guest speaker Dr. George V. Coyne, S.J., Director of the Vatican Observatory. The classroom in the Communications building overflowed with people who came to hear Coyne speak. The research interests of George Coyne have ranged from the study of the lunar surface, antecedent to the NASA Ranger and Apollo Programs, to the birth of stars. He has pioneered a special technique, polarimetry, as a powerful tool in astronomical research. The title of Coyne's talk for the Rimes Lecture was "Pilgrims in the Universe." Coyne's discussion focused on the interest in the discovery of extraterrestrial life and the fascination that there might be life elsewhere in the universe. However, said Coyne, "...the real marvel is not that there may be life elsewhere in the universe, but rather that there is life at all in the universe." According to scientific fact, the first microscopic life forms came to be on the surface of earth about 12 billion years after the Big Bang. One can reflect upon this in one of two ways, said Coyne, "Life is simply the insignificant tail end of a long evolutionary process or life is the culmination of an extremely long and delicate unraveling of the innate physics of the universe. In either case there is objective evidence for marveling." In his discussion, Coyne separated scientific fact and theology. At the end of the talk, the standing-room only crowd was pleased with presentation by Coyne and the 14th Rimes Lecture was considered a success.

Christmas on the Hill

The annual Christmas on the Hill celebration was on December 2, 1998. For this event, students, faculty and staff all came together in an effort to share in the true spirit of Christmas. As always, it was a time to rejoice and be glad with the gifts that God has given us — the most important being Jesus Christ.

The College community adopted refugee families for the Christmas season, and raised money to help buy presents and other necessities for the families. A dinner was prepared for all to enjoy and Santa Claus made an appearance. Following dinner was a candlelight vigil service in St. Joseph's Cathedral and a drama of the birth of Jesus. To conclude the evening, people enjoyed a bonfire, hot chocolate, and s'mores down at the Badger's Den. Christmas on the Hill was a wonderful event at Spring Hill because it brought together faculty, staff, students, and members of the external community for a single event — to celebrate the birth of a king!

Sorority Bid Night

After a long, nerve-wracking week for girls going through sorority rush, the week culminated when bids were distributed on Friday night. The event took place in the commons outside the cafeteria and was attended by both sorority members and student on-lookers. Excitement filled the air as the event got ready to start. Sorority members sang songs and cheered excitedly for their respective sororities. When a rushee was escorted down the stairs, she was greeted by her new sorority sisters, and a bid night shirt was thrown on her. As always, it was an emotional night, both for the rushees and for the sorority members. After the last girl ran down the stairs, the new pledges of both sororities gathered their belongings and went to spend the night with their new pledge class.

Fraternity Bid Night

It has long been a tradition at Spring Hill to have men's bid night in the quadrangle, at the bottom of Quinlan Hall. This year, like many others, the weather turned cold and students were forced to bundle up. However, this did not stop students from coming out to watch. Both men and women alike came to watch the night unfold.

Excitement was high as, one by one, rushees ran down the stairs, escorted by fraternity members. Once the rushee reached the bottom of the stairs, the celebration began.

Students Caught Off-Guard!

On top of the Hill...

On top of the Hill, students come from all over the world to attend classes and participate in college activities. Of the more than 1,400 undergraduate and graduate students, many come from outside the state of Alabama. From as far away as Alaska and Japan, Spring Hill attracts a variety of people.
The 1998 Freshman class brought an almost equal number of men and women students to Spring Hill. Statistics showed that there was just one more female student than there was male students in the freshman class. This helped to bridge the gap between the sexes. This section highlights the various people at Spring Hill. From the freshmen to the senior students, Spring Hill would cease to exist without their existence.

What do you like best about working at Spring Hill?

"First of all, I love the rapport that I have with the students. I feel that I can give them that comfortable feeling being away from home. I have many that want to just come by and visit, and some will sit and talk between classes. I have a daughter that went away to college and I would hope that she might have found that same comfort in a secretary's office that "maybe" I give other students. The second thing I like best is the camaraderie that the secretaries have. Being a small school, we are able to get to know one another. The secretaries lunch day "Tuesday" is great and we all look forward to being together." — Dottie Barnett

What has been your most embarrassing moment at SHC?

"It is a toss up: (1) "I changed my clothes one day to work out after work. When walking to my car, I dropped my slip (unbeknownst to me). It was later returned by a MALE Admissions counselor. Imagine that! (2) Two weeks before my due date, my water broke while standing at the copy machine in the office. A father and his son were waiting in my office; I never returned!" — Staff member

"When Lee Covey brought Fr. Rewak to our office to see a Gamma Girl display we had set up as a joke. The display included ladies' lingerie, stockings, eggs, cheese, a brick with our office number painted on it, a beach umbrella, a blanket and a condom." — Angela Strickland, Business Office

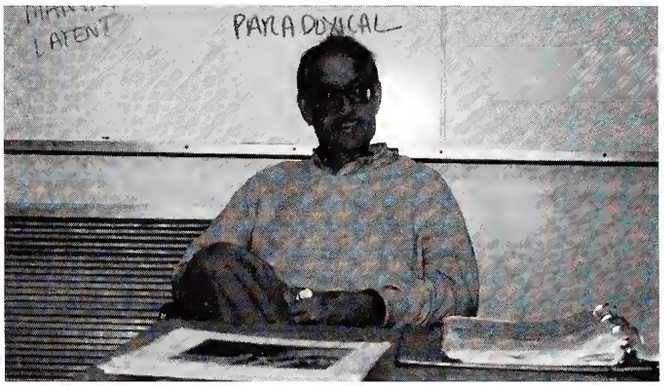
Spotlight on Dr. Bob Mac Aleese

What is the funniest excuse a student ever gave you for not turning in an assignment?
(1) I lost my notes when the wind blew them into the swimming pool by the Badger's Den.
(2) My dog ate my paper.

What has been your most embarrassing moment at Spring Hill?
I dropped three sets of exams in a driving rain outside my car one morning — print ran all over the pages!

When you were a student, what was the craziest thing you ever did?
I rigged students bedrooms so the bed (attached by a rope to the door) would fly out the window when the door opened. Unfortunately, one bed went all the way out the window and fell three stories after the rope broke. I also put food dye in the shower nozzles in my dorm and turned everyone purple!

What is your fondest memory at Spring Hill?
The year I gave an honorary degree at commencement to Hank Aaron.



What has been the best course you have taught. Why?
Abnormal Psychology. I guess because I'm not very "normal."

What do you like the best about working at Spring Hill?
The students. They are soo friendly.

When you were a student, what was the craziest thing you ever did?

"A boy from my hometown came to visit me at Rhodes College. He stopped along the way and picked up a tombstone from a funeral home and brought it to me. He lugged it into the parlor of the residence hall and left it there as a tasteless gift. It was too heavy for me to move, and it stayed in the parlor for several days until the housemother insisted I get the grounds staff to lug it away." — Dr. Margaret Davis

"I got drunk one night, fell down, and scarred my knees." — Staff member

"I set a logic book on fire in the back of the classroom during class."
— Tim Carmody

What is the funniest excuse a student ever gave you for not turning in an assignment?
The dog ate it.

What has been your most embarrassing moment at Spring Hill?
I was terribly hung over from a faculty party the night before a final exam. The students noticed my obvious physical distress, discomfort, and misery.

When you were a student, what was the craziest thing you ever did?
I skipped a class to go to another city for a weekend.

What is your fondest memory at Spring Hill?
The early days (1960s) when there were Jesuits everywhere!

What has been the best course you have taught? Why?
Comtemporary Spanish novel when there was a Spanish major and the Jesuit Scholastics took the course.

What do you like best about working at Spring Hill?

What is your fondest memory at Spring Hill?
"We moved to Mobile in May, 1984. I drove onto the campus in October of that year to interview for the job in Financial Aid. I fell in love with the campus that day — the beauty of the Avenue of the Oaks, St. Joseph's Chapel, etc. I still feel that way each time I drive in."

What do you like best about working at Spring Hill?
"The kids! I enjoy my job in Fianancial Aid, and I love my co-workers, but the kids are what it's all about. They help keep me young."

Spotlight on Dr. Don Culberson

What has been your most embarrassing moment at Spring Hill?
"Walking full speed, face first into a floor-to-ceiling glass panel while coming out of a chemistry senior seminar — Deignan Hall, Fall, 1998"

When you were a student, what was the craziest thing you ever did?
"You must be kidding. I started college in the '60s...no way I'm going public with this!! At least I was too late to get in on the goldfish thing and too early for streaking."

What is your fondest memory at Spring Hill?
"There are really too many to sort out a single one...and I've only been here two years! Most involve satisfying interactions with students."

What has been the best course you have taught? Why?
"Probably Cell Biology...I'm a Cell Biologist!"

What do you like best about working at Spring Hill?
"I like the personal interaction with students. In my experience, the opportunity and atmosphere for developing real relationships between faculty and students are among the strongest "plusses."

What is the funniest excuse a student ever gave you for not turning in an assignment?
"She didn't have time to finish it because she was pledging a sorority — and she thought that was a legitimate excuse."

What has been your most embarrassing moment at Spring Hill?
"Attending a meeting which I thought was for sharing ideas and finding out when I tried to speak that, though called a meeting, it was really a briefing."

When you were a student, what was the craziest thing you ever did?
"A favorite student hangout was a bar out near the airport. One night the police raided it to check IDs. We crawled out the window in the ladies' room to get away."

What is your fondest memory at Spring Hill?
"My wife and I had a formal engagement ceremony in the Sodality Chapel during graduation week."

What has been the best course you have taught? Why?
"(1) Asian Literature — because the material is new and different and because I, more than in any other course, am learning along with my students. (2) Creative Writing — it's fun to read short stories written by students."

What is your fondest memory at Spring Hill? My years in Venice as Director of the Spring Hill Venice program.

What has been the best course you have taught? Why? I taught a graduate course on Eucharist. It was enjoyable because I like the topic so much and the students wer so interested.

What brought you to Spring Hill?
In the early 1960s while I was in New Orleans I met a Jesuit I admired very much, Fr. James Yamaouchi, S.J. He was teaching at Loyola University. Fr. Yamaouchi told me of the many years he had taught at Spring Hill College with great enthusiasm and love. I knew nothing of Spring Hill at the time — little did I realize that almost 25 years later I would join the Theology faculty and teach some of the same courses he had taught. I still occassionally visit his grave in our Jesuit cemetary and say a prayer of thanks to him.

THE JOURNEY ENDS

As the first day of the 1998-1999 school year began, freshmen students from all walks of life began their year at Spring Hill College. And as the the sophomores and juniors began to learn the ways of their new adventure, the seniors prepared for the final year at Spring Hill. It was a year of "lasts." It was the last time we'd go to a Fall Formal, Oktoberfest, Campus Mardi Gras, or Avenue of Oaks party as a student. It was also the last time for us to roam the college campus daily or play golf at the spur of the moment, without even having to pay for a round.

As the year swept along, friends asked each other, "Where did all the time go?" And, of course, no one had the answer. Four years after being welcomed into Spring Hill as freshmen, we were about to say goodbye. We were to say goodbye to mid-night study breaks, weeknight partying, afternoon naps, and a basic life of luxury.

We had become adjusted to our lifestyles and were not ready to trade it all in. And we were especially not ready to say goodbye to the friends we had come to care about in the past four years. As graduation approached, we became more anxious and sentimental. We did not know exactly what was going to happen in the future and we were scared. We learned that all we could do was hold onto the memories that we had created and look toward the future. The end of the school year was in sight and we could not prevent it from happening.

Our four years were just about over as we prepared for graduation. And although we would have to say goodbye to a chapter in our lives, we knew that we would hold onto our memories which were never to be forgotten. Spring Hill will always remain close to our hearts, and a part of our lives, never to be replaced.

Fall Break

After mid-term examinations, there is one thing everyone needs...a break! For Fall Break, students get two days off from school. For many, the break is the first opportunity to go home since leaving for the school year. Newly made friends travel to spend the mini-vacation together. Many students use Fall Break to forget about homework and classes, and, of course their mid-term grades, which they receive shortly after the break.

A popular destination for Fall Break was St. Louis, Missouri. Many natives returned home with their friends. Students piled up in a caravan of vehicles to make the 10 hour journey. Once there, a large Spring Hill crowd was spotted hanging out together downtown. There were many different cities visited during Fall Break. And, although some peeple argued that one spot was better than another, one thing was certain...anyplace was better than school!

Making Money

My mother once told me, ''Work is not supposed to be fun, for if it was, they would not call it work. They would call it fun, and you would pay them for the privilege.'' While at SHC, all of us have become familiar with work to some degree. Each and everyone of us has heard the evil words, ''You are responsible for...'', uttered in our direction. Although responsiblities abounded in our lives, many of us still chose to spend time focused on off-campus jobs.

Fortunately, for some of us, my mother's words did not come true. Many SHC students have found a fun and rewarding job (some have even ventured to find more than one). Most students chose to work for the extra money (necessary for Friday nights at the Hole). One student said, ''Well, I had to work. My mom said that that if I did not get a job, she would not send me money to buy beer.'' Some, however, worked to help curb the costs that come witht the privilege of inclusion at this establishment. Just a few students (usually those who have fun at work) chose to work in hopes of gaining priceless experience in their field of study.

In the end, for whatever reason the studens chose to work, they brought back to campus a wealth of stories to share. Tom Brogan, who works in construction, often shares tales of a boss who reminds him time after time that, ''Skin grows back, but laminate doesn't.'' Another student, who works with troubled children insists that she, ''gets paid to cut and color.''

Through work, it seems, that our SHC community was enhanced, even for those who did not work off-campus. Sure, the road trips may have actually been planned around work schedules, and the parties may have started later, or even ended earlier; however, the community gained from each student's experience.

Beach Trips

When the weather in Mobile is warm, questions like, "Should I go to the beach, or should I stay home and study?" are pervasive on campus. There are many decisions for college students to make during the school year, but this one could be one of the hardest for students at Spring Hill. With the beach just an hour away, it is always enticing us to make the trip, practically beckoning us by name. And for students, it's hard to resist the temptation.

Some students forget about school work for the day and take off for the beach. Other students bring their books, convincing themselves that they will get their work done while catching a few rays at the same time. Of course, it very rarely happens that anything but having fun is accomplished. But, at the end of a long day, students return to campus to either study or find a new way to procrastinate.

Dorm Life

For most, part of the college experience is learning to share. Since 85% of Spring Hill students live on campus, students have to learn how to live in community. This means learning to be patient while all the showers in the bathroom are occupied, or when you have to stand on line to do your laundry.

But, hardest of all, is learning to live in a small room with another person. It takes time to become adjusted to living and working together. However, dorm life has it's up side, too. When living in a dorm, there is always someone to talk to, or turn to when you have a problem. The halls may be loud, but at least there is not a feeling of complete isolation from the world. So, while living in a dorm may not be the biggest, or fanciest place you'll ever live, it can still become like a second home to you.

Road Trips

Some Fridays roll around and there is a lot of talk about the exciting weekend ahead, filled with campus events, and other weekends promise nothing other than long nights at the Hole or the Red Lion. On the later type weekends, students shout, ``Road Trip!'' Whether it is planned, or at the spur of the moment, road trips can make an otherwise drab weekend exciting.

With New Orleans so close by, many students travel into the city which has a rich history and many cultural arts centers. Other students travel to larger colleges and universities to attend NCAA division I sporting events. Sometimes students start off with a plan, and other times they just hop in the car and go. However, one thing that is for sure is, no matter where the destination, road trips are always an adventure!

Studying Abroad

The thrill of seeing other parts of the world entices students to study abroad. While most simply go for an interim during the summer, others spend a semester studying abroad. Many students feel it would be too difficult to leave Spring Hill for an entire semester; yet, most of those who do wish they could stay longer. Countries and areas of study differ for each student; however, the most common programs are in Mexico, Spain, England, Ireland, Italy and France. Two students, Megan Meagher and Molly Connor spent the fall semester in Madrid, Spain. In Madrid, Meagher and Connor took classes in the Spanish language, Spanish Culture and Heritage, and varying Communications courses. At the end of the semester, students return home and back to Spring Hill. For many, the hardest part of studying abroad is having to return home!

On top of the Hill...

On top of the hill, there are many ways to get involved. Spring ill boasts of over 20 clubs, in addition to 7 fraternities and 3 sororities. For students, the hardest part about getting involved is finding the plaee that best suites their needs. Though, once they find that place, it's easy to become active.

Organizations range from serviee-oriented clubs and social eireles, to educational eoteries. In addition, there are student publication groups, art leagues and theater gangs. There are also honor societies and liturgieal servers. With all of these choices, it's difficult to join just one club. owever, it's even more difficult to find time to engage in many. Days bcome juggling acts, as one tries to find time for both studies and extra-eurricular activities.

In this section, clubs are pictorially and textually portrayed in further detail. Eaeh organization is unique and offers something a little differcnt. It just goes to show that on top of the hill there is a place for everyone!

S.H.O.R.E.S.

Spring Hill Ocean Research and Exploration Society

The S.H.O.R.E.S. club was back in action for the 1998-1999 school year. Members of the club kicked off the year's events at Dolphin Island, where they worked to clean up a section of the beach. The turnout for the event was great and it propelled the club to even bigger and better events later in the semester.

Members of the club took an overnight trip to Panama City; however, along the way, they stopped at Gulf Aquarium. At the aquarium, they were able to watch a dolphin show. The highlight of the trip followed the show when they were able to pet Kiwi, a pan-tropical spotted dolphin which Fr. Regan helped save. After the aquarium, the students went to St. Andrew's State Park, where they snorkeled and collected specimens. They spent the night camping and returned to school the following day. Yet another event that the club participated in was the Research Cruise. The club rented a sailboat and sailed around Perdido Bay. They were able to see many birds and dolphins.

Second semester for S.H.O.R.E.S. members was just as exciting as first semester. Trips were taken to the aquarium of the Americas in New Orleans and to Crystal River, where they swam with manitees. Additionally, members returned to Dolphin Island where they once again cleaned the beach. — by Megan Duncan

Choir

The Spring Hill Student Liturgical Choir once again brought the school much inspiration through their musical gift. However, this was not done without hard work and dedication. The members of the choir were incredibly busy with numerous activities including performances at 10 p.m. masses, Christmas on the Hill, Rite of Christian Initiation (RCIA), Baccalaureate Mass, and Mass of the Holy Spirit. In addition to these activities, the choir underwent a transition as Christina Przybylski stepped up to the challenge of serving as the student choir director. Przybylski replaced Jennifer Delcambre who served as director for two years. Przybylski says, "It is an honor and a privilege to have this opportunity. It is wonderful to give something back to the group that has given me so much."

Spring Hill Kinghts of Columbus Father Michael Kenny Council 3038

The Knights of Columbus are one of the oldest organizations on campus. Chartered in 1947, the Knights have been an active group dedicated to their founding ideals of charity, unity, fraternity, and patriotism.

During the fall semester, the Spring Hill Knights of Columbus have completed a variety of service projects, including aiding St. Mary's Home in their annual fair for the benefit of their senior citizens. Their work consisted of setting up and taking down booths, barricades, tents, and moving items for the auction. In addition, the Knights helped to collect meals from students during Hunger Week for the benefit of world hunger relief. The knights also raised money for children with mental retardation by virtue of their annual Tootsie Roll Drive. The Knights are also responsible for ushering at 11:00am mass in St. Joseph's Chapel every Sunday.

Membership of the Knights has increased as eight new members have been inducted, bring total active membership to 24. Membership includes Gary Albert (Grand Knight), Corey Oubre (Deputy Grand Knight), Wes Hyland (Treasurer), Keven Rys (Secretary/Trustee), David Hughes (Warden/Trustee), Carlos Domnick (Chancellor), Will McDonough (Inside Guard), Matt Previts (Outside Guard), Jamey Renda (Advocate/Membership Chair), John McCormick (Social Director), J.P. Morrell (trustee), Mo Christou, David Beaugh, Matt Thompson, Mark Wilson (Honorary Member), Mark Christman, Patrick Hall, Jonathan Parsons, Brad Osborne, Paul Scalici, Chris Knonochek, Seth Laubinger, Cesar Castillo, Rick Thome (Honorary Member). — by Gary Albert

Science Club

The Science Club's main objective is to publish the Mobius Strip. The Mobius Strip is a publication that gives students studying the natrual and physical sciences, as well as math and computer science, an outlet for accomplishments in their field. The Mobius Strip is composed of articles submitted by students and is published twice a year. The Mobius Strip is dedicated to the continuous evolution of science.

This year, the science club developed a lecture series comprised of students who participated in summer research programs. This provided a way for students who share similar interests in science inform their peers about career opportunities.

Lacrosse

The lacrosse team was once just a vision held by several students, but finally became a reality for the 1998-1999 school year. Led by Todd Schuler, the lacrosse team attracted many players, both male and female, to participate in playing on the club team. The lacrosse team enjoyed much support from students, especially at the season opener against Loyola of New Orleans. Despite the infancy of the team, Spring Hill rose to victory over the much more experienced New Orleans team.

Lacrosse is one of two club sports at Spring Hill. Like Rugby, lacrosse is a contact sport and is played without padding. Members of the 1998-1999 team were self-motivated and worked hard throughout the year. However, although they worked hard, they never forgot how to have fun and enjoy themselves.

PRCA/AAF

Public Relations Council of Alabama & American Advertising Federation

The Spring Hill chapters of the Public Relations Council of Alabama and the American Advertising Federation worked together as a professional club for Communication Arts students. Together, the clubs sponsored a speaker from the Mobile Community to talk to the club once a month about happenings in field of public relations and advertising. In the fall, they were a sponsor and organizer for the Juvenile Diabetes Foundation's Walk for a Cure. Members of these clubs participated in the walk along with other SHC Students. PRCA and AAF also held a Christmas party for Communication Arts students and a spring banquet in May.

Student Government Association

The Spring Hill Student Government Association (SGA) has been focused on increasing student involvement this year under the leadership of President Terry Hillery and Vice President Melvin Crump. Hillery and Crump, along with the student senators and cabinet members, took Spring Hill's student interests to heart by providing more activities in which students could become involved.

Events this year ranged from speakers, to performers, to novelty games. Old favorites, such as Oktoberfest, were enjoyed by many. Events were planned to allow more variety of things to do on campus and to meet with varying tastes.

Changes not only took place in the student activities, but internal changes in the governing body were made as well. Changes ranged from job titles, to policy, to the Constitution. Dean of Students, Stephen Roth, and Director of Student Activities, Leslie Donovan, oversaw the changes. A mandatory leadership training and leader retreat were just some of the new things implemented to insure that SGA worked as a cohesive unit to benefit students. Due to these changes, and many more, new ideas were brought forth on how to make SGA efficient.

Circle K International

Circle K International is the world's largest collegiate service organization with over 10,000 members worldwide and is a sponsored youth program of Kiwanis International. The Spring Hill college chapter was founded in 1994 and has steadily increased in membership and campus involvement over the past five years. Circle K strives to serve on campus and in the community, to promote good fellowship and high scholarship, to develop aggressive citizenship, to develop the spirit of service for improvement of all human relationships, and to cooperate with the administrative offices of the educational institutions of which the clubs are a part.

The Spring Hill College chapter has made Penelope House, a local shelter for abused women and their children, its single service cause. Through such efforts as providing a structured activity for children while their mothers are in counseling, collecting nonperishable foods for the shelter during the winter months, and assisting in the construction of playground equipment, our chapter has made a difference in many children's lives. Other events that the club has been involved in is the Easter Seals School for Special Children, Just Four Preschool, Chickasaw Elementary School, Copeland's Pet Store, the Mobile AIDS Walk, the New Student Orientation Band Party, Capture the Flag, and SGA Sponsored Musical Events. Like the motto of this organization, We Build, the Spring Hill chapter strives to build its commitment to serve the campus and the community, its commitment to develop the abilities of all people, and its commitment to dedicate itself to the realization of mankind's potential.

Habitat for Humanity

The SHC chapter of Habitat for Humanity became an official collegiate chapter in 1998. This nationally affiliated organization gave students and other clubs an opportunity to make a ''hands-on'' difference. The group, led by director Kelly Flynn and officers Mary Grill and Marianne Russo, worked locally with Habitat for Humanity to build simple, affordable housing in Mobile. Greek Council

Greek Council at Spring Hill is comprised of ten organization: Alpha Kappa Alpha, Delta Delta Delta, Phi Mu, Kappa Theta, Lambda Chi Alpha, Omicron Sigma, Phi Kappa Tau, Psi Gamma, Sigma Chi, and Tau Kappa Epsilon. The purpose of Greek Council is to represent the interest of all Greek organizations and the College, to program for the College community and to serve as a judicial board for Greek-related incidents. This year Greek Council stayed extremely busy. After Hurricane Georges hit, Greek Council sponsored a school clean-up day in which members of Greek organizations were encouraged to particpate. Greeks also participated in re-painting portions of St. Joesph's Cathedral and in creating a haunted house for the community at Halloween. To finish off the Fall semester, Greek Council sponsored a Wine and Cheese party. — by Christina Smith

Panhellenic Council

The Panhellenic Council of Spring Hill College is comprised of two women's fraternities on campus, Delta Delta Delta and Phi Mu. Its purpose is to govern the sororities, maintaining cooperation between the College and the sororities by keeping them focused on the mission statement, directing their attention toward philanthropic activities, and overseeing rush events. The council annually sponsors a philanthropic event in the fall, giving freshmen women a chance to meet upperclassmen sorority women. A Tea and Fashion Show is also hosted by the Panhellenic Council, in cooperation with the sororities, during Parent's Weekend. This event also allows freshmen to meet sorority members; but, more importantly, it provides freshmen women the opportunity to find out more about Greek life and the rush process.

Little Known Facts: Tri Delta ranks in the top three largest sororities nationwide.
There is a Tri Delta pin on the moon.

The Gamma Delta Chapter of Delta Delta Delta is more than just a fraternal organization; it is a home for a group of women that allows for close friendships to develop among all classes. Not only is membership in Tri Delta life-long, but so are the bonds which form among her sisters. Members of Tri Delta are very active on campus, participating in everything from Campus Ministry events, SGA and athletics, just to name a few. We are proud of and encourage the diversity within our chapter. A special and unique Tri Delta experience is our Pancake Breakfast in the fall. All of the proceeds go to Children's Cancer Research. At the Pancake Breakfast alone, Tri Delta raised over a $1,000 for this worthy cause. Other parties throughout the year are 80's Party, Barn Party, All-Tied-Up and the Stars & Crescent Formal. Other philanthropic events include our Jeopardy Tournament and tutoring at St. Mary's home. At Tri Delta, "Let us steadfastly love one another" is more than just our motto, it's a way of life. — by Monique Sommer

Tau Kappa Epsilon (TKE) is the largest international fraternity in the world. The 13 members of the Spring Hill Colony of TKE were initiated last academic year on April 28, 1998. This year, in cooperation with the American Red Cross, TKE sponsored a food drive to benefit those victims of Hurricane Mitch. In addition, the Teke's painted the Sodality Chapel, as well as completing grounds upkeeping at the Spring Hill Jesuit Cemetery. The TKE Rave, their first on-campus social, was a complete success with over three hundred people in attendance. The Spring Hill Colony looks to its guiding principles of love, charity, and esteem to guide its actions and looks forward to contributing to a bigger and better Greek community. — by Jean-Paul Morrell

Little Known Fact: Second oldest Women's Fraternity
Famous Alumni: Mary Ellen Webber, 1995 NASA Astronaut; Pamela Long Hammer, Head writer for Guiding Light; Carol C. Laise, U.S. Ambassador for Naples

When I think of Phi Mu, thoughts come to mind of good times with good friends. It's knowing that no matter where you are, or what's going on in life, there is an open ear and a shoulder to lean on.

Phi Mu Fraternity was founded in 1852 in Macon, Georgia, and became Phi Mu on Spring Hill College's campus in 1987. During this time, the sisters of this fraternity have been involved in many different activities. Some of these activities involve being involved in campus ministry, the dance team, SGA, sports and much more.

Each year, a rock-a-thon is held for Phi Mu's national philanthropy, Children's Miracle Network (CMN). CMN provides support for over 130 hospitals providing specialized help for children.

Last but not least, there is a social aspect to the sorority. Phi Mu has a semi-formal, black-tie formal, Crush party, sisterhood get-togethers, and other events each year.

St. Patrick's Day party

Number of Active Members: 8

Kappa Theta is the second oldest fraternity on Spring Hill's campus. The Kappa's pride themselves on being a part of the underground (or local) fraternities. Kappa Theta's members dedicate themselves to four ideals: Fraternal, intellectual, spiritual, and social. It is these ideals that form a solid foundation for their members. Kappa Theta consists of eight members who strive to be better individuals and who have a strong commitment to the old traditions of the fraternity. The fraternity holds numerous parties, but the two main parties are Kappa Kocktails and St. Patti's Day party. — by Ryan Renfro

On top of the Hill...

On top of the hill, competition is fierce. Every team is met with challenges, competing in NCAA competition. It is through these challenges, though, that our Spring ill athletes surpass expectations and rise to greatness. ecords are broken and memories are created.

embers of the various teams practice daily in order to perform at their best. Due to the rigorous training, the team becomes like another school subject, needing constant attention and atunement.

In this section, all of the sporting teams are highlighted. From the cross country teams, whose members run early in the morning, before anyone else on campus is awake, to members of the basketball teams, who play in front of the home crowd in the rec center. All of the athletes, in every sport, are to be commended for their talent, hard work and dedication.

"I can't recall one moment when I regret being a part of the tennis team. Well, except for those mornings when we had to run 'The Hill' after a night out with the tennis team. The friendships that I have made are ones that I know will last forever. My most memorable experiences at Spring Hill have been with the tennis players from the past four years. I am happy to have had the opportunity to play college baseball at a school with a winning tradition. Coach Sims has been beneficial in giving me the chance to play and be around different personalities through the baseball program."

Spring Hill's Dance Team

"We are excited about how well the dance team has turned out. We have a great group of girls who are willing to work hard and are dedicated to the team. The team is happy to see the overwhelming amount of support given to us by the campus community. We set a goal to offer those with a dance ability to perform for campus activities. We are very pleased with the results and plan to continue to support the athletic teams.

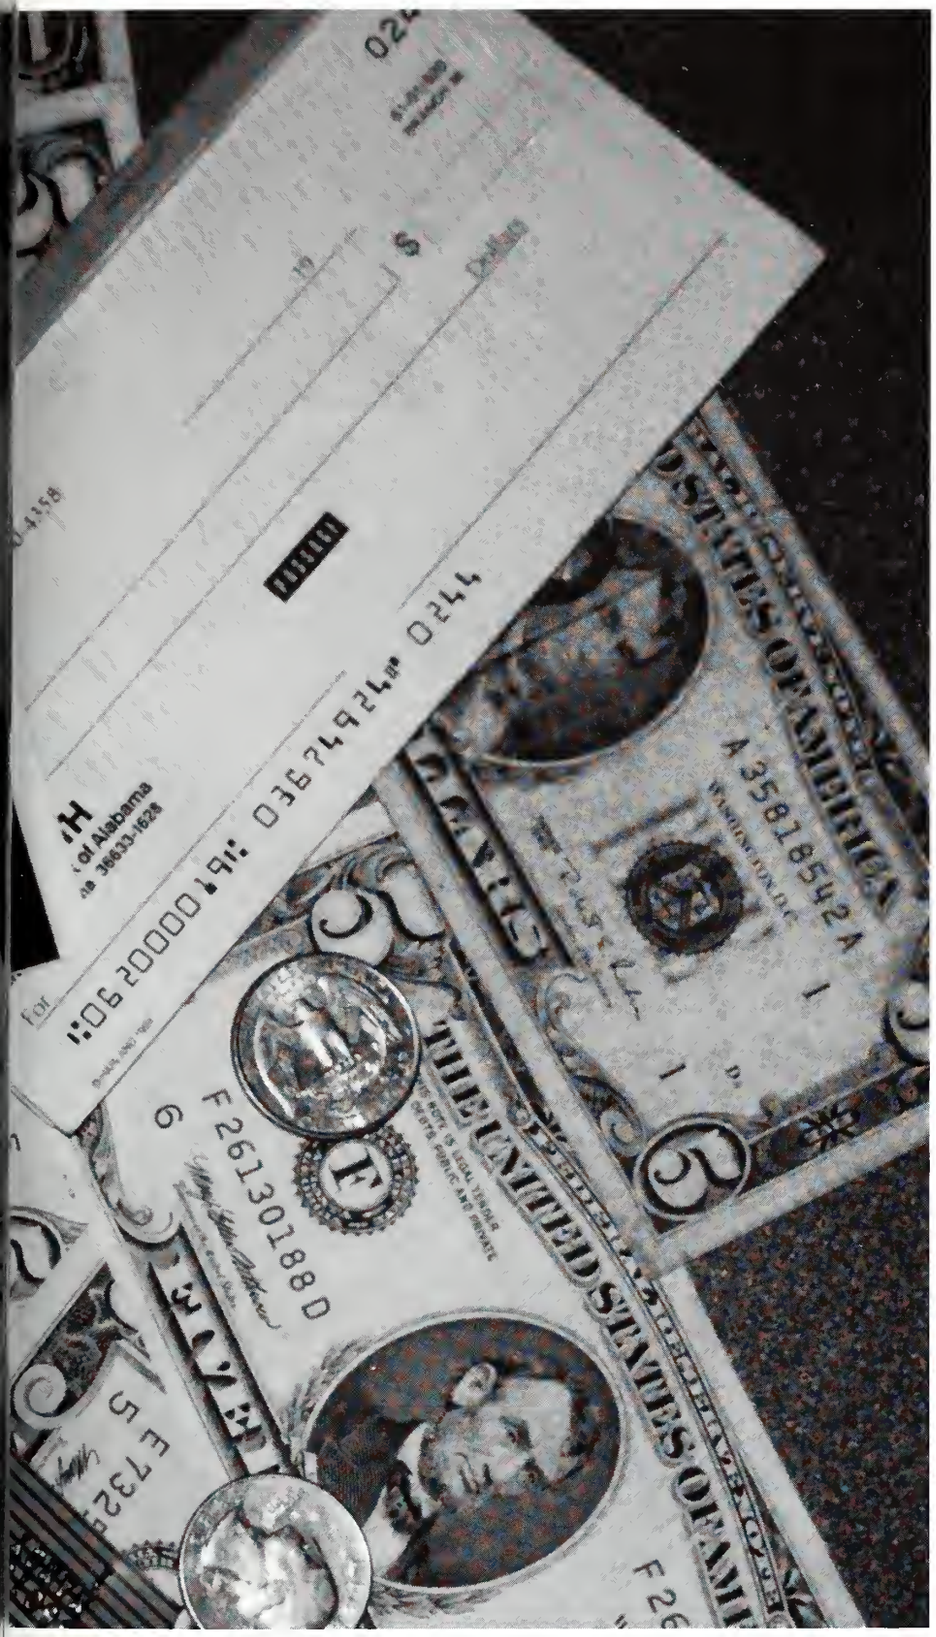
On top of the Hill...



On top of the hill, spending comes easily to students, especially freshmen who have their first taste of financial freedom. Students are bombarded with opportunities to acquire new "pre-approved, no-interest" credit cards, instant check cards, and, of course, free checking. With all of these conveniences, spending is easy.

Most students start off each new year with cash in their pockets, and a nest egg in the bank. However, within the first month, account balances decrease dramatically as students dip into their savings. Students spend their money in local supermarkets, coffeehouses,bars and at the malls.

In this section, both community members and parents give back to the students. Local business owners purchase ads; thus, support the school. Likewise, parents show support in the form of Senior Advertisements. These congratulatory notes reinforce the love parents have for their child. Without the support of these groups, the yearbook would not exist.

Some people come into our lives and quickly go-
Some people stay awhile and move our souls to dance.
They awaken us to a new understanding,
leave footprints on our hears,
and we are never, ever the same.

All our love, hugs and kisses,
Mom, Dad and Chip

Congratulations and good luck, Marisa!

In your future may you have as much joy and happiness as you have given us in the past.

Congratulations on your Graduation

Through the years you have grown to
All we have prayed you would become.
We are so very proud of you.
The following best expresses our hopes
And wishes for your future.....

May the road rise to meet you
May the wind be always at your back
May the sun shine warm upon your face
And may the rains fall soft upon your fields
May you live to see your children's children
And for all the seasons of your life
May God hold you in the palm of His hand

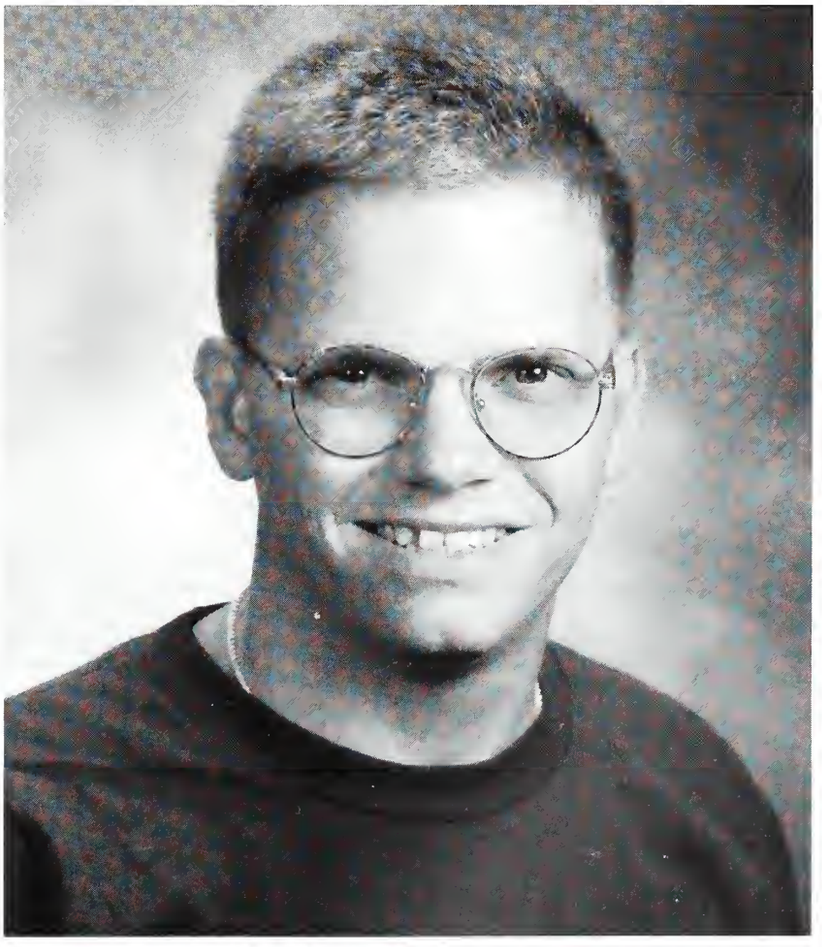
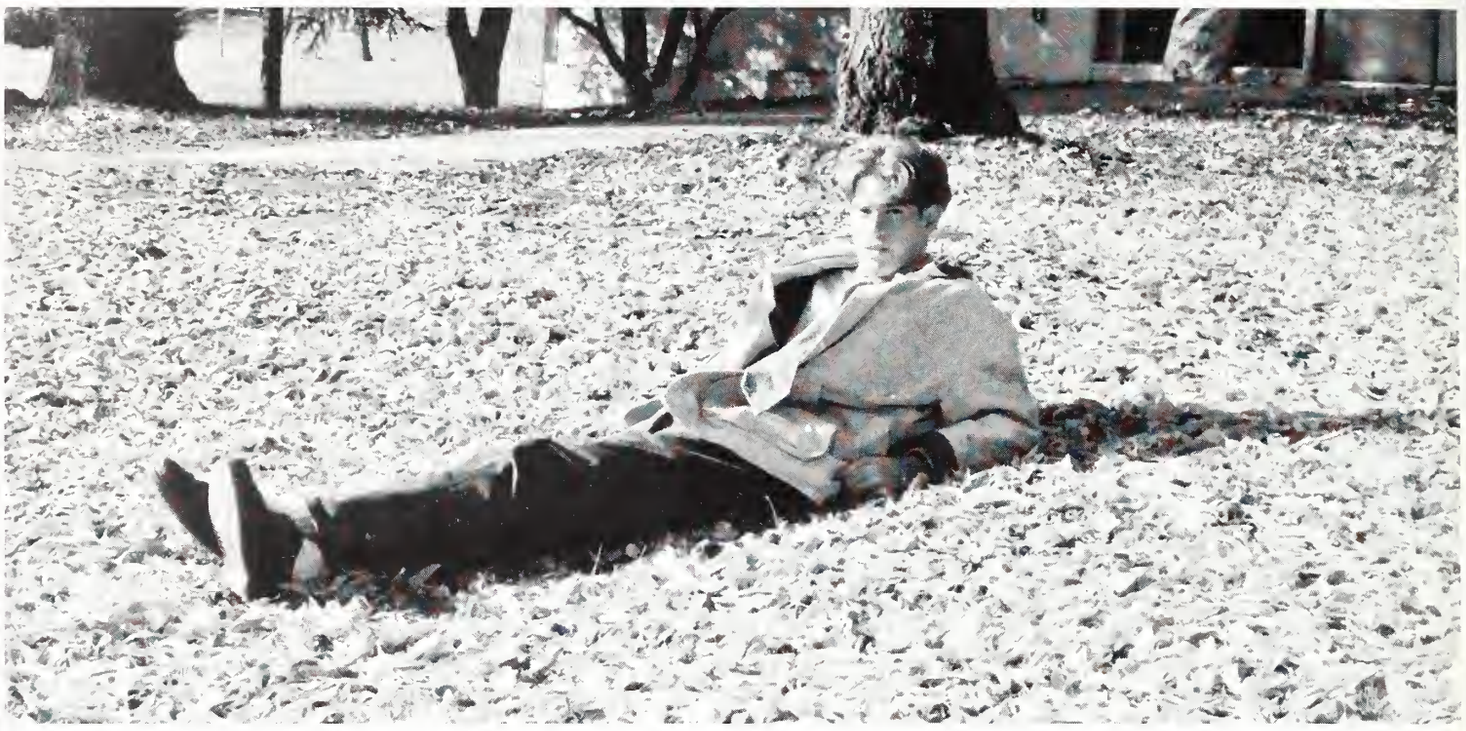
Congratulations, "Foote"

Mom and Dad are VERY PROUD of you! We've watched you grow into a fine young man with an excellent blend of both of us. We did good work, but you've made it even better. You have given us bragging rights to proclaim we have a daughter who graduated from Loyola and now a son who graduated from SPRING HILL — GOD WE ARE PROUD OF YOU!!!!!

Have a Wonderful Life!

LOVE, MOM AND DAD





My Son Patrick,
You are as honorable as you are beautiful. May your life be all that you wish it to be. I am so proud of you, and I love you with all my heart. Mom

Mende,
You have traveled many places and experienced many things, but there are more places to see and more things to do.

Always remember — the best way to get something finished is to start.

We are very proud of you!

Alma Mater

Like a torch upon a hilltop
Flaming in the night
Stands our noble Alma Mater
Ever blazing forth the right.
Raise your voices, sing her praises
Field and forest fill.
Hail to thee our Alma Mater,
Hail to thee Spring Hill!

Through the years true wisdom giving
Human and divine;
Faith inspiring, virtue planting,
You are ever our heart's shrine.
Raise your voices, sing her praises
Field and forest fill.
Hail to thee our Alma Mater,
Hail to thee Spring Hill.

Spring Hill History...

1830

In 1830, Spring Hill College was founded by the first bishop of Mobile, Michael Portier. On May 1 of that year, enrollment for first semester classes was 30 students.

1831

In Novemeber, 1831, the first permanent building was completed and stood on the site of the present Administration Building.

1836

In 1836, the governor of Alabama signed a legislative act which chartered the College. This gave the college, "full power to grant or confer such degree or degrees in the arts and sciences, or in any art or science as are usually granted or conferred by other seminaries of learning in the United States."

1837

In 1837, the school's first four graduates received degrees.

1847

Bishop Portier found it necessary to transfer the college to a congregation that had both teaching and administrative experience. He persuaded the Fathers of the Lyons Province of the Society of Jesus to take posession of the College. Father Francis Gautrelet, S.J. became president in September, 1847. Since that time the institution has been under Jesuit direction.

1869

In 1869 a fire destroyed the main building. All students and faculty were sent to St. Charles College, Grand Coteau, Louisiana. Bishop Quinlan and other benefactors assisted in rebuilding the College, which reopened later that year.

1935

In 1935, enrollment increased and Quinlan Hall, the College Chapel, the Byrne Memorial Library, and Mobile Hall were erected.

1952

The College became coeducational in 1952, at the request of His Excellency, Archbishop Toolen of Mobile.

1954

In 1954 black students were accepted into all departments of the College for the first time. Spring Hill was the first school in Alabama to permit black students to attend the school.

1999

The present enrollment of the college is approximately 1450 undergraduate and graduate students. The male to female ratio is approximately 1:1. Spring Hill is one of 28 Jesuit colleges and universities in the United States and 235 throughout the world. The Society of Jesus was founded by Ignatius Loyola in 1534.

SHC Alphabet...2nd Edition

A is for Apetite. You are feeling extremely hungry and so you walk over to the cafeteria for dinner...only to find out that once you get there you have no appetite. Coincidence? I think not.

B is for the Bomb Threat in Mobile Hall. Although no bomb was found, administrators confiscated alcohol and pornographic materials.

C is for Cash Shortages. Do you have any money in your bank account?

D is for Drinking. The main social activity on campus. No matter what day of the week, or what time of day, you can always find someone willing to grab a beer with you.

E is for Edukashun. Isn't that why we're here?

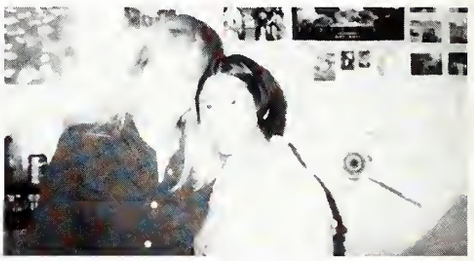
F is for our Football team, undefeated since 1946.

G is for Gambling. Putting money on the games, gambling is a pervasive underground activity.

H is for Hurricane Georges. Students were surprised to see that the hurricane hit Mobile and the apartments didn't collaspe.

I is for Information Overload. There's just too much information and too little time.

J is for Junk Mail. You go to your mailbox, hoping to find a letter. Your eyes light up as you see that something is in your box. Upon opening the box, all you find is a campus mailing from an organization that doesn't interest you in the least.



K is for Kicking Back. One thing is for sure, students have mastered the art of relaxation.

L is for Lunch Lines. Is it really worth the wait?

M is for Mardi Gras. The only time of the year when students get three days vacation to partake in public drunkeness and wild partying in New Orleans.

N is for Night Class. It sounded like a good idea, but you didn't realize you were going to miss your favorite television programming.

O is for Overeating. We complain about the food, but everyone seems to go up for seconds and thirds.

P is for Pizza. Without Spring Hill students, Pizza places would cease to exist. Some students have better relationships with the pizza man than they do with their teachers.

Q is for Quiet. Do you remember what it sounds like?

R is for Registration. There seems to be twice as many students enrolled at Spring Hill on registration day. Everywhere you go, you have to stand in line.

S is for Study Groups. Your group starts out with energy and enthusiasm, everyone promising to stay on track. However, as the night progresses everyone's lack of knowledge becomes funny and all you can do is have a good time because the test is in a few hours and you're going to fail. Very few people are part of a beneficial study group.

T is for Telephone messages. You pick up the phone and hear the broken dial tone. You're excited...someone must have called. When you check your voice mailbox, you find that all of your messages are attached.

U is for the Unexpected. You never know what you're going to get.

V is for Vacation. It lasts for four years and ends with graduation and the Avenue of Oaks party. Then, the vacation is over and it's time to get a job.

W is for Working Out. Everyone talks about it, but few actually do it regularly.

X is for eXams. How did you do?

Y is for Yogurt...the most exciting food item to hit the cafeteria.

Z is for Z end!

The End

It is always hard for me to sit down at the computer and compose the final page of a yearbook. I find it rather intimidating. From the start, the blank screen stares at me, and I at it, as though we are squaring off. I know my task is not only to fill the page with words, but to fill it with meaningful words. Something profound. Something unique. Something that I will be proud re-read fifty years from now. It is the privilege of any editor to have the final word.

Like previous books, I saved writing this note until the end. Every other page is finished and has already been sent to the publisher. And so, here I am, sitting in front of the glaring white screen, praying that the holy spirit will provide me with those 'perfect' words.

The period between the last deadline and the arrival of the yearbooks is filled with anguish for me. Among other things, I worry about how the books will look, and how they will be received by everyone. I thought as a second year editor it wouldn't be so painfully nerve-wracking. However, I was wrong. I seem to be filled with more anguish this year than I experienced before. Last year people didn't expect anything, but this year people expect great things. This, too, is intimidating; yet, wonderful at the same time. It is encouraging to know that people care about what you are doing. Not a day passed when someone didn't ask me how the yearbook was going. I thank all who did. It encouraged me. There were times when I wanted to give up, but knew I could not. I had made a committment to my fellow students and it was too late to quit.

So the yearbook became a personal quest. Over time, I learned a lot about my character, the good things and the bad. It isn't easy to discover your own faults, but it helps a person to grow. I feel as though I have matured by serving as editor for the past two years. I learned more about myself in working on the yearbook than I did in any class. I found that my body could survive on as little as four hours of sleep a night, and that Diet Coke was even better than coffee for breakfast. But I also found out that truly anything is possible, as long as you set your sights on it. I learned not to be complacent, but a go-getter; not to give up, but be persistent.

For the past two years most of my time and energy has gone toward putting yearbooks together. Now that they are done, I do not know what I'm going to do with all of my free time. I do know one thing is that I will never again feel guilty about not having a camera with me at a campus event. I'm excited about my last year at Spring Hill. It sure will be different seeing everything from the other side of the camera. I think I will enjoy it.

For me, this is it: I am saying goodbye to the long hours and low pay, the frequent deadlines and high stress, and the many frustrations that come with making a yearbook. However, I'm also saying goodbye to happy memories of the times I spent making pages, taking pictures, and, best of all, creating a memory book for students to keep as a remembrance of our times spent at Spring Hill.

So, this it. The final copy is done. It may not have been profound, nor unique. And who knows if I'll be proud to re-read it in fifty years. I'll tell you then. All I can say is, IT'S FINISHED! LET'S PARTY!
